The Vermont team consists of very experienced speakers, and boasts an enviable record. It has won five out of six decision debates this year. The four men who represent Vermont are R. E. McQuin, David Jenks, who comprise the team opposing the Junior College, and George H. Burrows and W. W. Workman, who form the other team.

The "Presidential Powers" question is to furnish the subject for debate tonight, with Vermont taking the negative and the Junior College the affirmative. Kiernan Schoonmaker and Paul Hanna compose our team tonight.

The Vermont faculty wishes it understood that these men are sent, not solely to win over their opponents, but to act as ambassadors of friendliness and good will.

Tomorrow, Junior College debaters will go to Gainesville, to uphold the affirmative of the Pi Kappa Delta question against the U. of Fla. team. Bob Knight and James Long will be the speakers. Paul Hanna, Kiernan Schoonmaker, Henry Walton will also make the trip. They will return Sunday.

Trojan Golfers to Meet High School Sunday at Pasadena

The Trojan golf team will meet the high school golfers Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Pasadena links, in their first meet of the year. The blue and white, boasting two of the city's leading golfers in Woods Beckman and Horace Williams, will enter the meet favorites.

Beckman will be playing No. 1 and will tangle with Bill Bond, the Green Devil's leading player. Williams playing in No. 2 position will meet the city's up-coming young golfer, Mack Wing. Armand Bonnette will be playing No. 3 man for the Trojans and will meet the Green Devil captain, Tom Flint, while Bill Dunlap, playing No. 4, will meet Sam Messener.

SOCIETY ENJOYS PLAY

"... a merry woodland comedy Which I have writ just as you like it..."

The play itself was a splendid piece of work. The major characters presented a sparkling, clean-cut, carefully handled interpretation of their parts. All the actors, in big roles or small — Charlotte Ferguson, Hugh Overturf, Helen Young, Harold Riker, Gene Corfar, James Long, Gordon Reeves, Bill Kaehler, Marie Good, Milton Plumb, Jane Glascock, Henry Walton, Charles Hof, Frank Tichenor, Charles Moore, T. C. Parker, and all the singing foresters, and attendants, played their parts with the skill of experienced troupers.

The out-door setting was perfect

TROJAN TRIFLES

By ARMAND BONNETTE
SPORTS EDITOR

Well, I'm just like the rest of you... with all these activities going on around here now, I'm just running around in circles. . . . There are certainly plenty of things to take up the time of the athletically inclined male around Utopia Tech these days. . . . Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Benn has secured use of Stewart field for us to have our class track meet. . . . The string of victories of the sophomore class will be threatened by the freshman class in this meet. . . . and it looks as if LaVerne Thomas could stop the second year men all by himself. . . . better plan some way of getting rid of "Bubba" before Tuesday, you sophs.

Well the old golf team has finally gotten started. . . . the match Sunday will bring together four of the city's leading young golfers and the ability of all four should bring forth some excellent golf. . . . It looks to me as if the match will end in a tie. . . . Beckman and Williams will be high favorites to win their match, thus giving the Trojans 9 points. . . . while Dunlap and yours truly will be very much the underdogs against Captain Tom Flint and Sam Messener. . . . which means that the green and white should gain 9 points there, which will leave the whole thing right where it started. . . . The tennis team is scheduled to play Florida in Gainesville this week-end, but definite word has not been received. . . . The swimming team has a meet scheduled April 20 with Rollins.

for a play that has in itself such an out-of-door atmosphere as "As You Like It." The unusual three-level stage gave opportunity for effective grouping. The whole effect was very beautiful.

Miss Center deserves the greatest of congratulations for creating such a splendid production, and to no less degree should Mrs. Villafranca and Miss Lynch be congratulated for directing the music and dancing and Mr. Gager for his management of the building and decorating of the stage.

The performance for the general public will be Monday night at 8:15. The Junior College is expected en masse.

Blue and White Netters Defeat Stetson Team; Meet Again April 28

S. P. J. C.'s tennis team came through in fine fashion in their first major meet of the season Wednesday when it swamped the Stetson Hatters in two singles and one doubles match. John Hollis displayed some fine tennis to defeat the Hatters' No. 1 player, Freeman, 6-2, 6-3. Ed Turville had a hard man in Berger, but after being carried to 18 games to win the first set 10-8, he steadied down to take the second 6-2.

Hollis and Gordon Graham paired together in the doubles to defeat Freeman and Berger in a hard-fought match. The blue and white team started raggedly, losing the first set 5-7, but came right back to win the second set 6-4, and the third 6-1 to win the match.

The Trojans will meet the Hatters on their own courts in DeLand again on April 28.

STUDENT OPINION

Me, I'd buy a golf course.—Woods Beckman.

I'm not a piker like Woods. I'd have an estate on an island—far from the maddening crowd, with a bar attached, and a sixteen-cylinder Cadillac, and a yacht.—Bill Dunlap.

Well, first I'd faint. Then I'd go shopping and buy out the town.—Evelyn Chiles.

efficient student government. It is expected that the convention will discuss, in addition to questions of organization, the frame work and functions of student government, the honor system, extra-curricular activities of all sorts, fraternity and club problems. Inasmuch as spring elections are approaching, the Honor Council is hopeful that the local delegates may return with some solution for the problems, which the creation of the Junior class has raised, and which so far have been avoided rather than solved.

NEWS FLASH !!!

Mr. Martin Walters has signified in no uncertain terms that his latest true love is Miss Virginia Wilson. To the huge delight of the Dean's history class yesterday that direct young man walked in before the Dean's arrival and presented the blushing young lady with a large Easter basket of eggs and candy. Presumably the next thing on the program will be a market basket.

TROJANS WIN AND LOSE IN DEBATES AGAINST ROLLINS

Yesterday afternoon the college won in its debate with Rollins by a 2-1 decision. This debate was presented over the air through the courtesy of WSUN. Paul Hanna and Bill Meyer upheld the negative side of the national question. The affirmative was upheld by Bob Robinson, Reginald Clough, Maurice Dreicer, of Rollins. The judges for the debate were: Mrs. Annie McRae, Jonathan P. Smith, Victor Wehle. The Rollins team was delayed by motor trouble in Lakeland and were forced to fly the rest of the way for the debate.

Last Saturday evening the college lost their debate with Rollins in Winter Park. Kiernan Schoonmaker and Gene Corfar upheld the affirmative side of the national question. Last Monday the debating club held a debate at the Shrine club at the request of the Optimist club. The negative side, composed of Paul Hanna, Bill Meyer, won the debate.

April 27, the college will debate Miami university in Miami. This debate will close a most successful season for the debating club.

The convention next year will be held in Gainesville in conjunction with the Florida Intercollegiate Press Association meeting, Bill Cherril, president-elect of the U. of Fla. student body, was chosen president of the Government Association; Carolina De Montigne of F. S. C. for W., first vice-president; James Phillips of Junior College, second vice-president. The offices of secretary and treasurer went to students of Southern and Stetson.

COUNCIL CONSIDERS NEW AMENDMENT FOR JUNIOR CLASS STATUS

At Honor council meeting this week several changes were made in the constitution. The following amendment was passed by the council and will be submitted to the student body for approval at Monday's chapel.

The amendment: "That elections of class officers continue as per the constitution, but that the Honor Council, until the time when the Junior class shall have increased to a sufficiently large and representative group, shall be empowered to choose between the presidents of the Junior and Sophomore classes the president of the student body." "That class representation on the Honor Council be changed to three representatives from the Freshman class and four from both the Sophomore and Junior classes."

Upon suggestion it was also decided to create an Honor Club which will be composed of all those who have made general averages of 90 or above with no grade below 85. A picture of this club will be taken for the Annual the first of the week.

Problems Discussed by Nat'l Music Conference

Mrs. de Villafranca has just returned from a trip to Chicago where, as one of three from the state of Florida, she attended the Music Supervisors National Conference held at the Hotel Stevens, April 8-13. She said that the conference consisted of 4,000 musicians and educators from all parts of the United States, in fact (Continued on page 4)

Group Boosts S. P. J. C. In Bradenton, Sarasota

A group of Junior College students are journeying to Palmetto, Bradenton, and Sarasota today to give programs to the high schools of these cities, for the purpose of acquainting students with the advantages of the local college.

Jimmy Phillips will give the introductory talks. John Hollis will then tell of the various activities of the college. Betty Thomas will picture the social side of college life. As entertainment the college quartet will give a variety of popular and humorous numbers.

Similar trips further down the west coast and to the interior of the state will be taken by the same group.

Junior College Students: Mr. Benn and I want to thank you for your beautiful gift. I pause every time I pass the china closet where they are most conspicuously placed and spend two minutes in silent admiration.

Mr. Phillips so upset me in chapel when he told me some interesting things about my husband that I forgot to tell you that the handsome plates are in the same pattern as all our glassware and we have practically the whole dinner service now.

We do thank you for the gift—we're very proud of it. Sincerely, Mrs. Donald Benn.

SOPHOMORES FINISH GRADUATION PLANS

At a special meeting of the Sophomore class last Wednesday plans were made for commencement exercises this year. The Baccalaureate service will be held at the Presbyterian Church, Sunday, May 27. Rev. J. A. McClure will deliver the sermon to the graduating class.

The first decision of the class was to have this service at the Episcopal church because Dr. McClure delivered the Baccalaureate address to this class in high school. The final decision was reached when it was pointed out that the college held its Baccalaureate at the Episcopal church two years ago.

It was also decided that for commencement the girls should wear afternoon dress or informal evening dresses of pastel shades while the boys should wear blue coats and white trousers.

Dean Reed announces that the commencement speaker this year will be William George Dodd, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at the Women's College in Tallahassee.

"As You Like It" a Financial Success

The Shakespearean play was a surprising financial success in spite of the fact that one performance was given free. Total receipts from ticket sales amounted to $317. Expenses were $164, leaving a net profit of $153. Of this $100 goes to the school fund and the remainder to the Playmakers.

The city generously donated all the palms and shrubbery and the bleachers.

Congratulations are due all those who helped to make the performance a success.

Dances by Invitation During First Half—Last Half Tag LARGE CROWD EXPECTED

The first spring prom of the Junior College will be given tomorrow evening at the Municipal Pier ballroom, from 8:30 until 12:00 o'clock, in honor of the high school graduating class. Ray Williams' eight-piece orchestra, the Southerners, will play.

Among the numbers on the entertainment program will be a balloon dance with a surprise feature, planned by the entertainment and decoration committee, of which Hugh Overturf is chairman.

More than five hundred invitations have been issued to high school students and friends of the college. The invitation committee includes: Lois Miller, Betty Thomas, Jerry White, Aileen Murphy, La Verne Thomas. The dance will begin promptly at 8:30. Admittance for anyone but Junior College students will be by invitation only.

The first half of the dance will be non-tag. Dances will be by invitation. During this time a reception committee will endeavor to introduce the various people at the dance. This committee includes: Milton Plumb, chairman, LaVerne Thomas, Jerry White, Peggy Harrison, Virginia Laughner, Poe Herden, Betty Jane Irons, Harold Riker, Helen Young, Bob Knight, Evelyn Chiles, Aileen Murphy, James Phillips, Betty Thomas, Gordon Graham, Virginia Wilson. It is hoped that this plan will be more satisfactory than that of the ordinary tag dance. Boys are requested not to form a stag line during the first part of the dance.

IN THE RED

From time to time various U. S. citizens become excited over the radical element in this country. A great ballyhoo is raised. Streamers fill the papers. Then some individual, politician or otherwise, pooh poohs the idea and the gullible American settles down to his everyday life.

Recently the Communist party U. S. A. held a convention in Cleveland. There were five hundred representatives of the twenty-five thousand reds in the United States present. Most of the convention was spent in attempting to broadcast to America the unestimable benefits of a Communist regime. One item of interest was a song composed for the occasion. It follows:

Oh, the bankers they are planning
For another great big war.
To make them rich from the workers' dead,
That's all that war is for.
So if you don't want to see bullets holding sway
Then come on, all you workers,
And join our fight today.

The ideas in the song are as inaccurate as most of those of the various radical parties.

Most of us would take the attitude of indifference to such conventions as the above mentioned. Yet we should note that Russia is exercising all sorts of means to undermine the present governments of the world. How many of us realize that in South America, for example, Russia has already undermined U. S. trade to a great extent.

It occurs to us that we might compare the present world situation to the situation in our country up until this past year. In this country various merchants and dealers were going farther and farther in cut-throat methods of competition. Thousands of men were put out of business in this way. Is it not possible that Russia, and also Japan, are starting the same methods of world competition? Certainly the U. S. must be prepared to combat any such methods. We should not like the U. S. to be put out of business.

TO THE DEBATING CLUB

The WOODEN HORSE wishes to commend the Debating Club for its achievement this year in making debating a major school activity. It is generally recognized that this organization has done more for general college publicity this year than any other in school. The college certainly owes the debating club a rising vote of thanks.

CONGRATULATIONS

A vote of appreciation is due those students who worked "behind scenes" to make the Shakespearean festival possible. These students may justly feel that the artistic and financial success of the play depended on them to a great extent.

A large number of college students worked hard on the Festival. It is to be hoped that those who receive the benefits of the proceeds will appreciate it.

"INTERMISSION"

The players
Filling roles of magnitude
And those of lesser import
Are weary of the burden
Of their drama;
They falter with their lines
And their cues; they can't go on,
Then, with whispered thanks
To their many Gods,
The curtain falls,
For a time they are at rest.

The rain
First in delicate tinkling
Like distant laughter of wind in bells,
Then in throbbing surging beat,
Changing to the constant pounding
Of the muffled kettle-drum,
Stirring, calling, demanding,
The players doze, then dream,
Then sleep; the stage is vacant
For they have earned
This rest.

The curtain lifts
With a firm demanding flourish,
Of an instant all are ready
At their entrances, with their lines,
Dressed again in robes of priest, peddler,
poet,
Each confident he will attain
Success, and many shall
In the one existent drama,
From that brief intermission
Refreshed.

"THE EARLY BIRD CATCHES THE WORM"

Every time some one says, "The early bird catches the worm," I chuckle in my whiskers, or I would—if I had any whiskers. Who wants a worm, anyway? If the maxim is true, I suppose birds, at least early birds, enjoy worms. The question follows, "What kind of worms do early birds prefer?" Some like long, slim specimens; others, the furry variety; but the masses of early birds favor the big, fat, juicy worms. Personally, I think they're lucky to find any worms out so early in morning.

Some say that the adage may be interpreted to mean that the human being who is always on the job gets the opportunities. Fine, but why compare a hard-working person to a bird? Worse than that, why call opportunity a worm.

Then there is another meaning given to the same maxim; "Promptness pays." Of course, if the bird had a date with the worm, it would be only polite for him to be on time; but we humans, somehow, find that we waste a great deal of time by being prompt for our appointments.

Of course, an expression like "The early bird catches the worm" is always nice to know. It may fit into the conversation, and it makes a good title for a theme. Nevertheless, when I hear it, I chuckle in my whiskers, or I would—if I had any whiskers.
—Betty Jane Irons.

IN THE SPOTLIGHT

(Editor's Note: This article is the fourth in a series of startling exposes written for the general enlightenment of our readers.)

Albert Woods Beckman

Albert Woods Beckman saw his first sunrise in Altona, Penn., December 5th, 1912. A fortune teller took one look at him and quoth: "He's hopeless; take him out and shoot him. But they were out of shells.

Mr. Beckman, through some mistake, received his diploma from St. Petersburg High School in 1930. He enrolled promptly in Trojan Tech, not because his education was not complete, but because he heard that golf, ping-pong, and crap-shooting teams had been organized there. He was soon forced to give up ping-pong. It was injurious to his heart.

Only one tragedy has marred Mr. Beckman's great golf career. He always draws the leading star in every tournament he enters.

But does Beckman quit? I should say not. He says, "What's the difference; let's have a party." So they have a party, and how! Life for Woods is just one party after another. Beckman enjoys himself everywhere he goes; and he certainly goes.

Woods is a former treasurer of the Playmakers Club; but they soon tired of his playing with the money he received as dues. For Beckman life is a party. (Oh, we said that before).

Beckman graduated from old Utopia in 1932. This term, when the Dean announced the inauguration of a third year, Woods came back again. The Dean quoth: "Ah, if I had known that was coming, I would have closed up the college, and started selling real estate." But then, nobody appreciates the child. He merely has a subdued longing for excitement.

Albert Woods has managed to steer clear of entanglements with the other sex. Miss Charlotte Weeks, Peggy O'Connor, Seat Gaither, and Miss Michaelhaffey have had the honor of his company. Girls, there's your golden opportunity.

Woods will breeze into the dance Saturday night. He will be the usual quiet and retiring lad. You must see him to appreciate him. He walks, he talks, he's almost human.

Plumb's Pudding

Lots of dirt this week, little ones
Two house parties, side by side, at old Madiara during spring vacation. Don Beggs losing a vital part of his attire there. Don and Belcher in the old swing at 4 A. M. Virginia Sloan embarrassing her club sisters in the wee small hours, (what a place to take your date). Helen Young doing right well. And the Parties were so ruff the landlady threw them all out.

Kingfish seeing Murphy frequently; but still opening his eyes when Craig whisks into town from Inverness. She'll be at the struggle tomorrow nite.

Chuck and Marion J. making time on the parking lot at the rear of the college, with Warren Baker acting as referee and critic. Chuckie gets around; he was out with G. Morris Friday nite. But his pal, Chiles, has reformed.

Carey and Porter with Jane and Ruthie. Some foursome. Somebody name it.

Mahaffey out after LaVerne's pin, which he so recently recovered. But Tommie, wise in the world and the gals, says "Nix". But Mahaffey keeps trying.

Down at the tennis courts one fair damsel calling Prof. Lewis "Garry". "Yoo hoo, Garry."

Paul and the Kingfish with 1400 women, Kiernan and Co. at Rollins, Watts seen around with Cue-ball, DeGroat and his good-looking girl from Clearwater, Jimmy Rimes tearing about with Wilson, when the latter isn't with Walters. That about sizes the whole place up. Oh yeah, Paul and his lady fair on the beach.

Jimmy Rimes whispers that Tom Davis loves Genevieve Morris, that the latter loves Sammy Hershott Bond. The only thing to complete the circle is for Sammy to love Tom.

"What are your views of kissing?" I asked little Glassecock so wise. "I haven't any," she responded, "I always close my eyes.... (I differ from Webb in that I acknowledge the source of my jokes. This one came from Sinclair Minstrels.)

John Rimes scorned the bids of our co-eds and attended the Shipwreck dance with Miss Collier of the High School. Uppish, this Rimes person.

Ask Moffat for that stunning picture of Laprelle. It's perfect. Ask to see Squibby's masterpiece of art. It will make some of you sedate grandfathers kick over the traces.

Watson, tearing himself away from the girl with the Buick, chased over to Havana with the queens. He took in Sloppy Joe's and the rest; but he is still kicking.

Herb Davis tore Havana loose after the race. Nice boy, that Herb. And he brought back a souvenir. And is he popular with the sots? Ask him, my friends.

L. H. L.s have received their pins. The Horse will give a prize to the lad who captures one first. TRY and do it.

Britt and his sailing parties keep him in good standing with the gals. But the best sailing party of the season will take place in Mr. Camp-

WITH WHOM, IN WHAT AND WHY---AT THE PROM

Society pages carry a long description of each social highlight the day after, telling who was there, who they were with, what they wore, and why. The Horse now innovates a new feature. With the Spring Prom coming off tomorrow night your correspondent will inform you of these matters BEFORE the gala event. This caused him much labor; but duty to reader comes before pleasure (but not far before). All work makes Jack and Jack makes Mary, if he can.

On the arm of Mr. T. C. Parker, 3rd, Miss Betty Weeks will knock the making lot for a loop in a gown of apple-green crepe trimmed with green lace. It is fairly certain that Mr. Parker will wear coat and trousers.

Miss Betty Jane Irons, in a red and white Swiss gown, will swish in attached to the arm of Pres. Poe Heron of the Freshman Class. Poe will wear a smile and a white tie.

Miss Lois Robinson will wear a red and white organdie gown, direct from Paris. She will be escorted by Mr. Al Anderson, direct from Chattanooga.

One of the features of the evening will come when Miss Jo McClure comes tripping gaily in, with a firm clutch on Ray Knopke. Miss McClure will dazzle them in a ruffled white organdie gown. She will carry a lily, but that's a flower, not her escort.

Organdie is certainly to predominate the ladies' gowns. On the haughty arm of Mr. Gawdan Graham, of the famous cracker-family, Miss Virginia Wilson will dance in with a stunning red and white gown of plaid organdie.

Miss Kit Latham will appear in a girlish and demure evening gown of ruffled white organdie. She will enter under the protecting arm of Mr. Flint.

Giving the onlookers a treat, Miss Marion Johnson will contrast her golden tresses with a pale blue crepe gown, trimmed in blue chiffon. As things now stand, Britt rates the honor of escorting this sensation to the Prom.

Miss Peggy Harrison, in an evening gown of delightful pink satin, will be escorted by Mr. Plumb. Mr. Plumb will be the same old reserved dignitary, while Miss Harrison will be her same little sweet self.

Miss Eleanor Mahaffey will risk her reputation by appearing at the elite affair with Mr. Roderick Webb. Miss Mahaffey will be gowned in an attractive gown of white pique. Mr. Webb will wear something; but it is hoped that it won't be that brilliant yellow golf costume.

A charming flare of color will mark Miss Genevieve Morris' frock, a summer evening gown of red and blue gingham. Mr. Tom Davis will have the honor of keeping Miss Morris under control. Mr. Davis threatens to wear a blood-red necktie.

A checked frock of black and white organdie will be worn by Miss Jane Reel. Her escort, Mr. Carey, will
